THE PORTLAND KEROSENE OIL COMPANY Would inform the public, that they continue to Manufacture PORTLAND KEROSENE OIL. The prevalence of a large quantity of inferior and dangerous oils in the market, at a cheap price—many of which are little better than Naptha itself—and the existence of false reports in regard to the PORTLAND KEROSENE OIL, render it a matter of justice to ourselves, as well as safety to consumers, that some notice should be taken of these facts. Therefore, we again present an advertisement, and would call attention to the high standard of our Oils, THE REFINED PETROLEUM, the fire test of which is 122, THE PORTLAND KEROSENE, the fire test of which is 125 degrees Fahrenheit, and often reaches considerably higher; also, we would say, that we are determined to maintain their long established reputation. PORTLAND KEROSENE OIL COMPANY.

We quote from chap. 89 R. S. 1871, the title of said chapter being "Inspection and sale of Manufactured Articles." SEC. 31. And if any person manufactures or sells such oil or burning fluid not so inspected and marked in this State or that has not been so inspected and marked as unsafe for illuminating purposes, he shall pay a fine not exceeding five hundred dollars or be imprisoned six months in the county jail, upon indictments therefor. WOMAN SUFFRAGE.

The American Woman Suffrage Association held a very satisfactory Anniversary and Annual Meeting in New York and Brooklyn, Oct. 13th and 14th. The Convention was large, and much enthusiasm prevailed. Col. T. Wentworth Higginson presided and made the opening address. Letters endorsing the movement, were read from Hon. George Wm. Curtis, Wm. Lloyd Garrison, Lydia Maria Child, Elizabeth Stuart Phelps, Louisia M. Alcott and others. Eighty six delegates were present, representing organized societies in fourteen States and Territories. The annual report states that Woman Suffrage is established and works well in Wyoming and Utah, that it was under discussion last winter in 21 State Legislatures, and received a majority vote in those of Maine, Iowa and Michigan. Written reports were read from 17 States. Julia Ward Howe was elected President for the ensuing year; Lucy Stone, Chairman of the Executive Committee. Among the Vice Pres. at Large are Vice President Henry Wilson, Hon. Geo. Wm. Curtis, Senator Sargent, Wm. Lloyd Garrison and Col. Higginson. The Resolutions adopted are as follows.—

"Resolved, That the primary aim of the American Woman Suffrage Association is to secure the ballot for woman; while it includes in its general aim, the establishment of her equality of rights in all directions.

Resolved, That one half of the adult population of the United States who are legally entitled to hold property, who are assessed for taxes and punishable for crime, and whose interest in the Commonwealth is in no respect less than that of the other half, should not be deprived of an equal voice in the Government.

Resolved, That a government of the people must be a government composed equally of men and women, inasmuch as the equal co-operation of the sexes is essential alike to a happy home, a refined society, a Christian church and a republican State.

Resolved, That our present political system is not fairly representative, even of men, being largely controlled in the primary meetings by rings of trading politicians intent on private gain; that political reform must enlist a more general interest on the part of the people in the management of public business; and that this would be greatly promoted by combining the social sympathy and co-operation of woman in the primary meetings, at the polls, and in the halls of Legislation.

Resolved, That we advise the friends of woman suffrage in every locality to promote the movement morally and politically, by organizing local societies, for circulating tracts and newspapers, for holding public meetings, and especially for helping to elect the friends of suffrage and to defeat its enemies.

Resolved, That the woman suffrage movement, like every other reform of the age, laments the loss, and honors the memory of its most powerful advocate, John Stuart Mill."

THE STATE OF THE LUMBER TRADE.

During the past two or three months we have personally visited a large number of the prominent members of the lumber trade in the several important lumber districts and have found the talk of a very dull market and an unprofitable season to be universal. We have previously published our account of several important manufacturing markets of the East, and stringency in the money market must have blighted the hopes that were there entertained of a good fall trade at higher prices; fortunately the streams have continued dry and but few of the water mills have been able to run on full time, thus keeping a large amount of lumber off the market for this season. If the streams should continue so low all winter as to seriously interfere with logging operations, and allow only a limited stock to reach the mills next spring it would prove a blessing to the trade and would in the end make millions of dollars for the mill-men of Maine. The market of New Brunswick has not improved since we were there and no efforts are being made by the manufacturers thereto to sell long lumber in the states; the European contracts of Mr. Gibson must be pretty well filled, and the mill-owners of the St. John and its tributaries will be anxious that they should be duplicated, unless their other markets rapidly improve in present prospects. The other manufacturers in New England and those in the Middle States report a great reduction in the stock now being handled, and that prices will not warrant an increase of production but will rather force a still further decrease.

The receiving ports on Lake Erie are all well stocked with Michigan lumber at satisfactory prices, although it is more than probable that with the markets on the Eastern shore of Michigan, and the freights ruling as at present, that many dealers could duplicate their orders to be delivered before the close of navigation at more advantageous figures than when they purchased. On the Western shore of the State matters are much worse; the panic affected the Chicago market very seriously, though not so badly as the Times and Inter Ocean of that city would imply in their reports copied into these columns. Manufacturers of Manistee, Ludington, Muskegon and other points on the Western shore of Michigan, and many from North Eastern Wisconsin, especially those with limited means, will be heavy losers from this seasons work. A prominent millman from Manistee informed us that the manufacturers of that port and Ludington would average a loss of fifty cents per thousand for their whole cut, the mills at Muskegon will do nearly as badly, while many operators at smaller points will do a great deal worse; some men from the Green Bay section were reported to be selling lumber at $1 50 per M. feet, less than the cost of the logs. The most of the Chicago dealers who own mills have closed them up for the simple reason that they can buy lumber at from $2 to $4.50 per M. less than the cost of manufacture; yet in the face of these facts it is confidently anticipated that there will be a third more logs cut on the Muskegan river the coming season than its markets will demand.

The market of St. Louis, which is the important receiving and distributing point for the mills on the upper Mississippi and its tributaries, is in the same category with the other important lumber marts of the country. No money is being made by the trade, there is a very material falling off in the amount of building in the city this season, as well as in the amount of the lumber shipped and sold. Many dealers on the river and on the line of the railroads decline to have lumber shipped to them upon any terms. A number of [illegible] the currency troubles [illegible] withdrawal of a number of important ship and railroad orders and the countermanding of others.

American hard woods have stood the panic without a material decline, black walnut, cherry and ash are the best on the list, for the reason that in the dullest times the supply cannot be forced largely in excess of the demand. The natural sources of their supply are limited and are speedily decreasing and the rapid increase in their prices are the legitimate result of these facts. What is true to day regarding the rapid extinction of these valuable hard woods, is in a small degree true of all the timber of our country, it is being cut much more rapidly than the legitimate demands of trade require, and the whole lumber business of the land is suffering in consequence.

Speculation in timbered lands is a detriment to the lumber interest. It has induced men of small capital and men of no capital, to purchase large tracts of land, principally on credit, on which they commence operations with a small amount of cash, generally hired at exorbitant rates of interest. The season hardly opened before they find it necessary to obtain an advance, and from the day they take possession of the property to the day when the last stick of timber upon it is cut, they are hard pressed for money to meet payments upon their tracts, to pay interest, to pay stores and stock, to pay help, to buy tools and to pay taxes; for an hundred purposes money must constantly be raised and logs as well as manufactured lumber must be sacrificed to meet these constant demands. In this way these men work hard, involving themselves deeper and deeper, injuring the business of their neighbors, in a hopeless speculation. And this mode of procedure is little short of criminal. There is not one stick of timber now growing, more than the needs of our people will require for their regular business purposes, and the present wasteful manner of lumbering and milling in many sections of new country is entirely wrong. A National Association of Lumbermen—for which we argued months ago, and the advantages of which many of the ablest journals in the country have since heartily acknowledged—would have it in their province to prevent much of this wrong, and correct many other abuses that have tended to create the present unhealthy condition of the Lumber Trade of America.

The United States Commissioner of Agriculture, says: "If for twenty years to come the demand for lumber shall increase in the same ratio to the population as in the past twenty, more than 200,000,000 worth of American sawed lumber will be needed each year, denuding more than 10,000,000 acres of land. About 7,000 acres of land are cleared of timber each week day in this country. Of the annual crop $75,000,000 goes to fuel, and twice as much to fencing. The locomotives in this country consume no less than 7,000,000 cords a year, or 500 acres a day." This is a startling revelation, but there is no doubt that it is substantially true, and the day is not far distant when every acre of timber land will be immensely valuable.—[The Lumber Trade.

GREAT MEN IN EVERY-DAY LIFE.—We always think of great men as in the act of performing the deeds which give them renown, or else in stately repose, grand, gloomy and majestic. And yet this is hardly fair because even the most gorgeous and magnificent of human beings have to bother themselves with the little things which engage the attention of small people. No doubt Moses sniffled and got angry when he had a severe cold in his head, and if a fly bit his leg while he was sitting in the desert—why should we suppose he did not jump and use violent language and rub the sore place? And Caesar, is it not tolerably certain that he used to become furious when he went up stairs in the dark to get his slippers and found that Calpurnia had shoved them back under the bed so that he had to sweep around wildly for them with the broom handle? And when Solomon cracked his crazy bone, is it unreasonable to suppose that he hopped around the room and looked mad and felt as if he wanted to swear? Imagine George Washington sitting on the edge of the bed putting on a clean shirt, growling at Martha because the buttons were off; or St. Augustine with an apron around his neck having his hair cut; or Joan of Arc holding her front hair in her mouth, as women do, while she fixed up her back hair; or Napoleon jumping out of bed in a frenzy to chase a mosquito around the room with a pillow; or Martin Luther in his night-shirt trying to put the baby to sleep at two o'clock in the morning; or Alexander the Great with the hiccups; or Thomas Jefferson getting suddenly over a fence to avoid a dog; or the Duke of Wellington lying in a bed with the mumps; or Daniel Webster abusing his wife because she hadn't tucked the covers in at the foot of the bed; or Benjamin Franklin paring his corns with a razor; or Jonathan Edwards at the dinner table, wanting to sneeze just as he gets his mouth full of hot beef; or Noah standing at his window at night throwing bricks at a cat.—[Max Adeler.

UNFORTUNATE DUCK HUNTERS.

The Peoria Review men is out duck hunting. He says:

The duck season may be considered about over. It closes earlier this year on account of the supply becoming exhausted. The reason of this is evident when we state that the editor of this excellent journal, and Charlie Burdette, the "gentlemanly and efficient" registry clerk at the post-office, and "Judge," the black-and-tan that run off with the turtle, have gone up the lake to gather in all the ducks now extant. We are in constant receipt of telegrams from the party, and their progress is marked by great slaughter among the bucks and duckesses. The following is the bulletin:

On Turtle Point, 7:30 a. m.—One of the guns has just fallen overboard; have tied a large stone to the "Judge's" tail and sent him down after the gun.

Later.—The sagacious animal has just returned with it. He took it by the "muzzle" and put it on, to keep himself from being poisoned.

Second dispatch.—The editor has just shot a decoy duck, tearing it to pieces. He is now settling with a man for the same. The man is very ill-natured.

9:30 a. m.—Off Mossville. A dreadful storm has arisen, and the light shallop is dashing madly from billow to billow. We have just cast the dog overboard to lighten ship.

Later.—He has just climbed back again, bringing with him enough water to support a temperance meeting, and looking very much disgusted with the whole business.

On shore, above Mossville, 10 a. m.—The "Judge" has treed something to the top of a tree 250 feet high. It may be a bear. Charley has gone to the nearest house for an axe.

Later.—The tree is being cut down. We now think it is only a coon.

11:30.—The tree is swaying to its fall. We are certain it is a squirrel.

11:35.—The tree is down. It wasn't anything. But the tree fell on the dog and killed him.

12:00.—Charley has just shot a granger, in a red shirt, mistaking him for a turkey.—We're fleeing before the indignant inhabitants.

12:30.—The dog has just caught up with us; he is not dead, but flattened out to the size of an army blanket, a ghastly spectacle.

DEFENDING STATE SOVEREIGNTY. A despatch was received yesterday, from Indianapolis, to the effect that Governor Hendricks intended, if he had not done so already, to issue a requisition for the arrest of Superintendent Washburn, Commissioner Wright, and the party engaged in the arrest of the prize fighters near Robertsdale, Ind., on Saturday last. When Mr. Hendricks was inaugurated he laid great stress on the fact that he should exert all his influence to preserve amicable relations with sister States; but the raid of an armed body of men into the sacred territory of the State over which he has been placed as chief guardian is too much even for the well-known complacency of Mr. Hendricks, and his war spirit is up in arms. Should the requisition be issued, and the arrests follow, the hundred blue coats who so enjoyed their gambol over the green prairies in the pursuit of the fugacious and pugnacious sporting men, may find their pleasure to have been dearly bought. It is something awful, in the eyes of Hendricks, to violate State sovereignty even in the land- [illegible] a fight. Rather [illegible] should have been soaked [illegible] two commonwealths should have been crossed by the constabulary of Illinois.—[Chicago Inter-Ocean.

The Journal says that notwithstanding the dull times in manufacturing, Wyman's sash, blind and door factory, in Augusta, keeps on the even tenor of its way, with a full complement of hands, with no present danger of any temporary suspension. The Bath Times learns that a new industry is about to commence at Newport, R. I., viz., the catching of porgies for shipment to the oil works of Jos. Church Brothers in this State. The porgies are migratory and are expected soon. Floating cars to hold one thousand barrels each are built for storing the fish before shipment. When a schooner arrives for a cargo, a fish car and a boat of ice will be carried on as rapidly as possible.

A meeting was held at Portland Army and Navy Hall, Tuesday evening, of those interested in the erection of a soldiers' monument. The subject was thoroughly discussed in all its bearings and conclusions favorable to its feasibility reached. Simmons, the sculptor, who was present, stated that a bronze statue, seven feet high, would cost about $7,000. The pedestal should be twenty-two feet high. The design submitted by Simmons represents a female figure armed and cuirassed, exultantly raising a banner aloft, upon the lance head of which a wreath of laurel hangs.

PRESIDENT GRANT AND THE WINE LIST. "Howard," the lively lady correspondent of the Philadelphia Press, writes the following of President Grant.

You will remember that during his last trip to the White Mountains the patrons of the Profile House were moved to give him a big dinner. They feared the wine demonstration would not be long and strong enough, and therefore sent for several new brands. They made an imposing appearance upon the bill of fare which the waiter offered to Grant with an engaging flourish, and then awaited the result with the serenely solemn aspect of his class. The President read it attentively, and laid it down. "What will you take?" inquired the attendant. "You may bring me," returned Grant, "a plate of roast beef, with potatoes, and tomato sauce, and a cup of strong coffee." After this was disposed of the guardian angel of the table approached, and calling the President's attention to the wines said: "What can I bring you?" "I have a touch of dyspepsia, and I will take a glass of lemonade a little tart," was the astounding reply of his Excellency. Whether the lemonade was tart enough for the President or not, it was so tart that the very sight of it puckered both water and diners to such a degree that the word wine was not heard at that table again. If you don't believe me, ask Henry Ward Beecher, who was at the table.

The Philadelphia North American commends highly the course of the Cambria Iron Company, which has just announced that it proposes to retain the six thousand hands entered on its pay-rolls, and to keep them at work even though there has been an almost entire cessation of orders. And as the scarcity of currency prevents for the moment the obtaining of the small notes required for payments, they have arranged to the satisfaction of the men that for the present every article required by them shall be furnished in kind.

DESPERATE SCENE IN COURT. Some time ago a man named James Kingswell killed an old man named Francis Malone under peculiarly exasperating circumstances. The murder was the result of a quarrel which took place in a stable, and Kingswell effected his ends by means of a curry comb. For several days the trial had been going on in the new Court House at Philadelphia, and Tuesday afternoon, when Kingswell's counsel was drawing his arguments to a close, and was insisting that the defendant committed the deed purely in self defence, a very remarkable scene occurred. One of the sons of the murdered man unexpectedly made a dash at Kingswell with a dagger, and struck a blow at him to take his life. Court Officer Vanfank, springing forward, parried the blow, while Kingswell, frightened and terror-stricken, jumped into the bar of the District Attorney. No sooner had the young assassin been taken into custody than another son of the dead man came to the rescue, and, joined by still another party, engaged in a desperate combat with the officers. The consternation in the court cannot be described. Men rushed wildly here and there, while the room resounded with the cries of women and children. As the officers were conveying the three would-be assassins down stairs, the two sons swore eternal vengeance on the murderer of their father, and not only fought the parties holding them all the way to the station house, but after they had been conveyed to prison they continued the struggle, fighting desperately even when within the prison walls. The counsel for the defendant made all the use possible of the circumstances after the parties had been carried away, and the jury, strange to say, acquitted James Kingswell of the deed with which he was charged. The effect of the attack upon Kingswell had terribly alarmed him, and instead of taking advantage of his liberty, he earnestly begged to be carried back to prison, saying that a plot had been formed to take his life, and that, if he appeared on the street he would surely be killed.

CHEAP TRANSPORTATION ASSOCIATION. An address dated Boston, Oct. 24th by Josiah Quincy, President of the Cheap Transportation Association, is issued. He says that railroads have absorbed the largest capitalists and most active minds and they have earned a great deal of money; but the time has come when we are threatened with a curse of special rights, special privileges, special powers and monopolies of cliques and rings. He then refers to the statements of Mr. Hatch relative to watered stock of railroads, also to the grant of lands by Government to aid in building roads and the separation of land grants from railroads that the benefits of grants may be dishonestly appropriated. He also states that grave charges of various natures are made against the railroad management of the country and that the Cheap Transportation Association demands that the charges be investigated and if Congress finds that grants made to railroads have been obtained by false pretences and used for private aggrandizement they shall be reclaimed. The Association asks Congress to investigate special freight and passenger contracts between one portion of the country and the other. It will ask Congress to consider if it is not expedient to make laws regulating railways and if it is not also expedient to create a permanent railway commission with power to lay injunctions and abate violations of the laws; also that Congress consider the expediency of establishing national railroads from the Western States to the seaboard. Mr. Quincy closes by calling a meeting of the Association in Washington January 14, and invites delegates from all kindred State organizations to be present.

The recent oratorical effort of Andy Johnson elicits the following comments by that once-powerful organ of the Democracy, the Chicago Times:

Citizen Johnson did not come to make an oratorical display. What he came for was to inquire, "What kind of a Government have we now?"—or rather, as his speech shows, to tell what kind of a Government Citizen Johnson thinks we have now. We used to think we had kind of a Constitutional Government, but that idea, in Citizen Johnson's opinion, is now obsolete. Now, when anybody questions the constitutionality of a proposition in Congress, somebody gets up and says. "Damn the Constitution! We've got the numbers!" which shows that Citizen Johnson has not forgotten the time when President Johnson undertook not only to execute the functions of the people's head servant, but to run the Representative Assembly of the people also, to be at once head waiter and master of the household.

Mr. Mullett, Supervising Architect of the Treasury Department, in his annual report, now preparing, will oppose the policy which Congress has adopted within the past two years of voting hundreds of thousands to erect public buildings in places of no particular consequence, and will urge that the Government halt all the work that can be done in that line now in hand. The last Congress authorized buildings to be erected at various small places, but in some cases failed to make the appropriations, and they have not been begun. The amount appropriated at the last session alone exceeded $50,000,000, but the full sum will not be required for many years.

Letters which John J. Wright has caused to be printed in St. Louis, reflecting upon the Attorney General's office and several connected with it who are engaged in the present suits against Wright for bounty frauds, are pronounced by Attorney General Williams to be absolute forgeries. He says Wright obtained some of the department correspondence by bribery, and then forged the letters he has now published with a design to prejudice the public against those now acting for the Government in prosecuting Wright.

DR. H. A. BARROW may be confidentially consulted, as usual, at his private office, 18 MAIN STREET, BANGOR, from 9 till 1 and from three till 6 P. M., and at FRANKLIN HOUSE from 6 till 8 P. M. Hundreds are suffering from the effects of early indiscretion, who may be restored to health and strength by consulting an educated Physician, who has made these diseases a specialty. Dr. Barrow's treatment, during an extensive practice of many years, has been eminently successful in curing Nervous, Mental and Physical Debility, Exhaustion, Inaptitude for Business or Application, Dimness of Sight, Giddiness, or Noises in the Head or Ears, Painful Dreams, Pimples on the Face or Body, want of Nervous Force, Timidity, Bashfulness in Society, Pains in the Back or Loins, Impaired Memory, Irritability, Weakness of the entire System, Palpitation of the Heart, General Indecision, and numerous other symptoms, leading to Premature Decay, Impotence, Sterility, Premature Senility, &c. The Doctor particularly invites those patients whose cases have been neglected or pronounced incurable, to place themselves without delay under his care, assuring them all that can be accomplished by science, skill, and the successful results of a long practice, will be at their service. DISCUSSING THE PANIC

In a recent letter upon the financial situation the veteran Thurlow Weed, of political fame, discusses the causes of and responsibility for the panic in a style more vigorous than consistent. He insists that specie payments might be resumed instantly if the Government and people would agree to it, declares the obstacles more or less imaginary, asserts that the present value of gold is artificial, and proposes as a remedy for the monetary evils that the 'chief gamblers' of the gold panic of 1869 and the Northwest corner of 1871, together with a few usurers, be summarily suspended by the neck across Wall street. This would be 'heroic' treatment of our difficulties, but the Boston Journal thinks it might fail to prove a permanent cure for all our financial and commercial ills, and it proceeds to criticize Mr Weed's extravagance of language as follows

The truth is, the 'chief gamblers' are not the only ones responsible for our financial troubles. Who supply them with money? Who employ their services? How comes the state of public feeling by which so much attention and capital are withdrawn from legitimate business to be absorbed in speculative operations? Even Mr Weed feels that the subject expands before him, although he does make a terrible muddle in following it up. He says that our agricultural and commercial circumstances were never more prosperous or palmy. But a little further on he finds himself dwelling amid 'a generation of idlers. Agriculture and mechanical arts are neglected. The practical industries of the country languish.' And so he goes on through all the delinquencies of parents in neglecting the training of their children, young men seeking clerkships and offices, and wealthy men spending so much money abroad, etc. Finally he takes another tack, and says: 'The moral of all which is that our country has grown too rich.'

Mr Weed is evidently confused by his indignation against Wall street. What he says is all true, except in its proportions and shadings. The people are growing rich; they are extravagant, they are wasteful; they run to speculation; they are on the road to poverty and misery. There are forty millions of us and we are in all sorts of conditions, and what is equally to the point, this variety was always the case. If we go back to the early Colonial times when our fathers had fairly got their foothold on the continent, we shall find in the private letters and the public sermons and other discourses the same earnest strictures upon the extravagance of the times and the decay of household virtues. Very likely we are a great deal worse now than we were then, but it is the badness of degree the same elements, 'good and bad' having continued in the bosom of society all the while. If we have grown too rich and profligate, we must pay for it as the spendthrift does.

There are two general remedies, or classes of remedies, that are available now, as always. The first is, we must cultivate, extend and strengthen good principles; and second, we must make the best regulations we can. It is not only important that honesty should be practised and inculcated, the young be brought up better and the senseless spending of money should be curbed, but the laws should be aimed directly at the evils now touching the community. It is clear, for instance, that the practice of paying interest on bank deposits does foment speculation and divert money from productive business. It ought to be prohibited by law. In short the honest portion of the community—which is still in the majority—should protect the rights of all as well as it can. But after all is done, there will still be chief gamblers and enterprising speculators, as well as thieves, burglars, and murderers. These are of the predatory hordes which will infest society up to the day before the millennium. The only way to absolutely get rid of speculative miscreants is to have no money; but as we are not disposed to try that remedy, the best we can do is to train up as many honest, worthy citizens as possible, and strengthen them as well as we can with good examples and rules legal and otherwise, and good influences.

THE STOKES VERDICT

After three trials the first resulting in disagreement of the jury the second in a verdict of guilty of murder in the first degree, Edward S Stokes whose bold assassination of James Fisk Jr, in a public place in the midst of a populous city, vividly impressed the public mind with the belief that he is a murderer has been convicted only of "manslaughter in the third degree." The case is one which has become too familiar to require comment and we simply relate the proceedings which attended the announcement of this extraordinary verdict. After the first retirement of the jury they returned to obtain instructions as to the relative degrees of manslaughter and at 11 20 P M came into Court with their verdict. The prisoner watched them narrowly, and when the foreman replied to the query of the Clerk "Guilty of manslaughter in the third degree," a wild hurrah from the prisoner's friends rang through the Court, followed by clapping of hands and stamping of feet, which provoked the indignant frowns of the presiding Judge.

The prisoner's counsel, Mr Tremaine, after whispering with his client made an appeal to the Court for a lenient sentence, and Stokes being ordered to rise and asked whether he had anything to say, dropped his head and muttered nothing. Judge Davis then with a countenance expressive of suppressed indignation, and in a tone of great severity passed sentence as follows

In rendering this verdict, Stokes, the jury have exhausted and more than exhausted all mercy in your case. No appeal to this Court can diminish the sentence from the highest penalty affixed by the statute in the degree in which you are convicted, and that is too light and apparently trifling as compared with the great crime you have committed.

I do not desire to make any further remarks on this case but shall impose upon you all that the law confers upon me power to give, and I only regret that that sentence cannot be more adequate to the crime which rests upon your guilty head. The sentence is that you be imprisoned at the State Prison in Sing Sing at hard labor for four years

Stokes was then surrounded and embraced by his male relatives and friends, and instantly hurried off to the Tombs. His female relatives were not present at the sentence. There was a great deal of rumor afloat as to the conduct of some of the jurors, and a reporter learned at the District Attorney's office that developments are to be made which will certainly astound the public. One of the jurymen is said to have been seen intoxicated in a saloon last Sunday, when in the presence of the Sheriff's officer he mandlinly declared that he would not hang Stokes. The rumors affect more than one of the jury, and late despatches from New York indicate that their conduct is to be investigated by the Grand Jury. It is also said that the counsel for the defense, elated by their success will carry the case to a higher Court on appeals from the rulings of Judge Davis. And the prospect is that we are to hear more of one of the most remarkable cases on record; the course and result of which have seriously shaken any belief that may have been entertained of the possibility of convicting a wealthy and genteel murderer in New York city.

THE SPRAGUES.

Our despatches convey the latest information concerning the embarrassments which have over taken the great house of A & W Sprague, of Providence, Rhode Island, and their branch commission house of Hoyt, Sprague & Co., of New York. The Spragues have long been among the most extensive manufacturers in this country, possessed of great wealth and carrying on business enterprises of vast magnitude. In addition to their immense factories in Rhode Island, which are free from mortgages, they control the New York and Providence Steamboat Company, the Perkins Sheet Iron Company, and the Delaine Print Works, which are said to be more or less incumbered, and also own the water power and factories at Augusta and large tracts of timber land recently purchased in this State. The assets of the A & W Sprague Manufacturing Co were recently estimated in Providence at $11,000,000, with liabilities estimated at something over $7,000,000. For some time past the financial stringency has sorely pressed the firm in raising the large amounts required in carrying on their business, and early this week the Providence banks were informed that they would require $2,000,000 to meet their demands. It was proposed that $1,000,000 should be raised in Providence and the same amount in New York. The bank officers at once held a conference with the desire to sustain the house if possible. The result of that examination was to be made known to day, and in the mean time the New York house has found it necessary to suspend. The First, Second, and Globe National, and the Franklin and Cranston Savings Banks, of Providence, are known as 'Sprague banks' and the failure of the Spragues would involve these concerns which are heavily loaded with the firm's paper. In carrying on their vast enterprises a great quantity of their paper has been thrown on the market, some of it negotiated, it is said, at a discount of 18 to 24 per cent. On Wednesday a messenger from Providence is reported to have arrived in New York to raise $1,000,000, and the despatch states that one million dollars worth of goods were at once sold by Hoyt, Sprague & Co to H B Claflin & Co for seven hundred thousand dollars, with the intention of a further sale to make up the million required. These reports would indicate a serious state of embarrassment, which although of a temporary nature may compel the suspension of the house.

It is not believed that the banks of Providence other than those named, would be dangerously affected by the Spragues suspension and the effect of their stoppage has already been discounted in the New York money market. Still the vast extent of their business relations must render their suspension a serious disaster in financial circles and among the working classes and it is to be hoped—in spite of the very unfavorable indications—that the capitalists of Rhode Island and elsewhere will carry the firm over the crisis and prevent the misfortune of their failure at this time.

We stated the other day the fact that the Commissioners on New Insane Hospital had received no official notification from any town of offers for the location of the new institution. A correspondent in yesterday's Bangor WHIG AND COURIER states that Bluehill has sent in such a proposition, and the WHIG intimates that 'our local zeal' caused us to 'strain the facts' in the case. We can assure the Whig that our authority for the statement was the chairman of the Commission and we hardly think it necessary to 'strain' any facts when we have information on this subject directly from such a source. We presume the Commissioners are ready to back up their statement.—Kennebec Journal

The issue of fact then lies between our correspondent—whose statement was very positive—and the Commissioner. There should be no difficulty in settling the question at rest.

A letter from Miss Sarah J Prentiss of Paris written from Brenner Austria, was read at a recent temperance meeting at Rockland by Gov Perham. Miss Prentiss expects to remain abroad until another fall. She represents the drinking habits of the people in Munich, Brenner, and all Europe to be deplorable. Notwithstanding the common use of beer, she reports that drunkenness is so common that it creates no surprise.

It is reassuring to know that in spite of the financial panic the exports of the country are flowing out in unchecked volume, while the amount of imports is falling off. At New York the imports of foreign goods from July 1, to Oct. 25, were $33,875,378 less than for the same period of last year, while the exported domestic products between those dates this year amounted to $53,611,683 more than in the year previous. The export of gold also decreased $16,287,747, during the same time. The heavy gain for several months past is regarded by the N. Y. Times as justifying the estimate that during the present fiscal year ending June 29, 1874, the balance of trade in our favor will be at least $100,000,000, while in the year 1872–3 the balance was $100,617,000 against us. Under these favoring conditions of trade the depression of business can be only temporary.

BANGOR, Me., Oct. 28th 1873.

Messrs. Herrings & Farrel

Gentlemen — Mr GEO F COCHNOWER, Manager of your Branch House in Boston presented to me to-day, a sample of your High and Low Steel welded, and also a piece of your Franklinite Iron such as you use in the construction of your Burglar Proof Safes and Bank Vaults, with the request that I drill them if possible. I caused to be made some drills of the best quality, and as hard as could be made expressly for this purpose. These drills were used in a steam power drill with a pressure of fifteen hundred pounds to the square inch as near as could be estimated but I failed entirely to drill either sample, the drills having no effect at all on the surface and I deem it impossible to drill either of the said metals.

The Financial Troubles!

FAILURE OF HOYT, SPRAGUE & CO.!

WALL STREET TAKES IT CALMLY!

Condition of A. & W. Sprague & Co.!

Waiting For The Banks to Report!

FAVORABLE EXHIBIT PROMISED!

A SURPLUS OF $11,000,000 CLAIMED!

THE FEELING IN NEW YORK!

FEARS FOR SOME JOBBING HOUSES!

HOYT, SPRAGUE & CO., FAILED.

New York, Oct 30. Hoyt, Sprague & Co. have failed.

Later—Hoyt, Sprague & Co., do not deny the rumor of their failure, but decline to make any statements as to their affairs at present.

EFFECT ON THE STREET.

Foreign banking firms are mentioned as sufferers by the suspension of Hoyt, Sprague & Co. This failure was the great talk in financial circles to-day, and the immediate effect was a heavy decline in the values on Stock Exchange and depression outside.

THE SITUATION OF A. & W. SPRAGUE & CO.

A despatch to the Times from Providence, says the embarrassment of the firm of A. & W. Sprague is declared to be beyond recovery and the result, regarded as inevitable, is suspension. It is not thought that other suspensions would be caused, though it is said there is a good deal of Sprague paper afloat which has been current at a discount of 18 to 24 per cent, and those best informed express confidence that even the failure of Sprague would not occasion a general panic on Thursday.

A BANK CONFERENCE HELD.

It being represented that an amount of money had been obtained from unexpected sources, a meeting called of bank representatives was held, when a second application for a million dollars was made. The result was the appointment of a committee to make further investigation, and also to consider the question whether the action taken to secure money would be valid under the bankrupt law. The greatest fear in Providence is a check to the industry of the State.

FROM PROVIDENCE—THE SPRAGUES NOT YET SUSPENDED—THE BANK MEETING.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Oct. 30. It is understood that A. & W. Sprague do not suspend to-day, notwithstanding the failure of the New York house. Upon application at the office of the Messrs. Sprague, the confirmation is furnished that the committee of investigation into the affairs of the A & W. Sprague Manufacturing Co., appointed by the representatives of the city banks, will be prepared at a meeting to be held to-morrow morning to make a report, which it is thought will be highly satisfactory to the creditors of both A. & W. Sprague and Hoyt, Sprague & Co.

AN AVAILABLE SURPLUS OF $11,000,000 CLAIMED.

The surplus of available property at a low valuation over all outstanding liabilities upon the acceptances of Hoyt, Sprague & Co. will, it is stated, be not less than $11,000,000. A plan will be presented at the meeting to-morrow accompanied with a detailed report of the situation of the firm, which will, it is believed if carried out, render the embarrassment of A. & W. Sprague and Hoyt, Sprague & Co. of temporary duration.

FEELING IN FINANCIAL CIRCLES.

NEW YORK, 30. The suspension of Hoyt, Sprague & Co. to-day caused much surprise to the general public, but in financial circles there was not so great a shock as might have been expected, owing to the belief that their assets will ultimately carry them through their present pressure.

THE EFFECT AT THE EAST.

There are grave fears that this event will lead to the closing of important mills at the east, and thus insure further privations and suffering among eastern operatives. Viewed in this light, the suspension is sad to contemplate, and should it cause embarrassment among banks at the east and drag down other firms, then it may produce financial complications likely to disturb confidence in the future.

HEAVY LIABILITIES IN NEW YORK.

We trust that its effects may be more circumscribed than generally anticipated. Considerable paper of the firm is held in this city, it being estimated that $3,000,000 of their notes have been discounted by banks, bankers and individual capitalists here. Some of the foreign bank firms were mentioned as sufferers by the failure, probably in the way of cotton operations for the mills. It will take some days for the full development of the effects of the suspension of Hoyt, Sprague & Co.

THE WORK OF RIVALS.

There is no doubt that the antagonism of rival concerns has had much to do with the result and the publication of the embarrassments of the Spragues is accounted for in this way. Arrangements were perfected which would have carried the concerns through for these publications.

WHAT THE TELEGRAM SAYS.

The Telegram says: "Mr. Hoyt is said to have at least $4,000,000 assets in excess of his liabilities, although a great part of this sum is said to be now tied up in merchandise of different descriptions. Great sympathy is expressed for the firm, and a gentleman whose name is well known in Wall street said to-day that he thought the creditors of the house in Providence had adopted a very short-sighted policy in refusing to assist the house upon which thousands of persons depended for employment, and whose embarrassments were, so far as he could judge, only temporary."

THE TROUBLE IN PROVIDENCE.

A messenger from Providence arrived in this city to-day, and was closeted with members of the firm. It is understood that his account of the financial condition of the Providence house was such as left no alternative to Hoyt, Sprague & Co. but suspension. There seems, however, to be a general impression that the firm will be able to resume at no distant day, if their creditors will assist them by an extension of time.

NEW YORK CREDITORS LIBERAL.

It is reported that the New York house could have obtained all assistance necessary to keep them afloat through the present troublesome times both from friends and creditors, if a similar forbearance had been shown to the Providence firm. It was however impossible to separate the fortunes of one house from the other.

NO SIGNS OF PANIC.

The impression caused by the suspension on Wall street was not so bad as some expected it would be, and although the street was uneasy this morning, there was no appearance of panic.

HARD ON DRY GOODS JOBBERS.

Another financial writer says of the suspension: "The dry goods jobbers will feel this failure keenly, and it would not be surprising if many would make a virtue of necessity and resolve to suspend while they can preserve the bulk of their assets intact, instead of struggling on and finally being obliged to succumb.

THE BANKS STRONG.

Inquiry among bank officials here reveals the fact that there are no apprehensions of trouble growing out of these new developments. The banks have gained over three-quarters of a million of legal tenders to-day, and are represented as being strong enough now to abandon the pooling system which was resorted to early in the panic.

NOT TOO SANGUINE.

The same writer says, however, that there are certain banks in this city, which it would not be proper to name, loaded up with dry goods paper and all depends on the ability of the large jobbing houses to stand up under their load. Under such circumstances it will not answer to be too sanguine.

NO CHANGE IN SITUATION.

PROVIDENCE, Oct. 30—Midnight. There is no change in the condition of A. & W. Sprague's office to-night. Their maturing obligations to day were small and were paid. Committee of banks is hard at work with counsel and members of the firm to prepare an exhibit and proposition to be submitted to the bank meeting to-morrow. No information is given as to what the proposition will be, but the statement of affairs is PRONOUNCED TO BE FAVORABLE.

The failure of the New York house having been anticipated did not cause a great sensation although canvassed with interest in its bearings upon the failure of the Spragues. The ability and disposition of city banks to help them through is undoubted. We hear of no house that is likely to go down with this disaster.

NEW YORK CITY.

THEODORE TILTON TO BE EXPELLED FROM PLYMOUTH CHURCH.

NEW YORK, Oct 30. The Grievance Committee of Plymouth Church at the last meeting decided to expel Theodore Tilton from Plymouth Church for refusing to appear before the Committee and testify in the Beecher scandal case.

THE STOKES VERDICT.

The verdict of the jury in the Stokes case last night was greeted with cheers from some portions of the house and hisses from others. Stokes was taken back to the cell in the Tombs. It is not thought that Stokes' counsel will appeal to the Court of Appeals again, but cling to the laurels of a hard fought battle.

A SIGNIFICANT CHARGE—WERE THE JURY TAMPERED WITH?

Stokes will be taken to Sing Sing Tuesday next. Assistant District Attorney Russel says it will not be prudent to make public anything in reference to the Stokes jury at present. In the Oyer & Terminer Court this morning, Judge Davis addressed the Grand Jury at great length on the subject of lotteries and policy dealing, and said that complaints against persons for violating the statutes against these practices would be laid before them. He also said complaints against petit jurors for grave offences against their duty and oath and against court officers for not only negligence but corruption would be made to-day.

THE DETECTIVES IN THE BANK OF ENGLAND CASE.

An investigation into the alleged unlawful and felonious conspiracy of Capt. James Irving and Phillip Farley of the detective force of this city with Geo. McDonald, the noted Bank of England forger, commenced this forenoon before the Police Commissioners. Irving and Farley are accused of receiving from George McDonald a package containing $10,240 in U. S. bonds, a letter of credit for £500, a diamond ring of the value of £400, with the express understanding that they were to be used according to McDonald's direction for the purpose of his defence in New York, and that Farley subsequently returned $6,000 of the bonds to McDonald; that after receiving the property they neglected to report to their superior officers the fact of the receipt of the same, and afterwards refused to deliver the property or any part and denied having the same or that they had ever received it, or any part thereof from McDonald.

The investigation of charges against deputies Irving and Farley was continued this afternoon. Clarance A. Seward testified to Irving's refusal to work in connection with private detectives and his determination to arrest McDonald himself. He also said that Farley had a gold-headed cane which he got from McDonald.

SUSPENSION.

Lloyd, Hamilton & Co., bankers, of this city have suspended.

ALLEGED REVENUE FRAUDS.

Charges have been made and affidavits filed at the Custom House against Woodward & Robinson, salt importers and warehouse men, by E. Hayes, former book-keeper of the firm, who charges them with defrauding the Government and private parties by removing and selling bonded goods from the warehouse without a permit or paying duties. The firm deny the charges and the District Attorney's office says there is only a dispute as to the construction of certain clauses of the law.

BOUND TO BREAK HIS NECK.

Donaldson, the aeronaut, made an ascent from Newark yesterday in the balloon Magenta. The balloon came down on the Brooklyn Central & Jamaica R. R., on Long Island; the basket was dashed violently against a farm house, and Donaldson received a severe wound in the jaws. The balloon nearly struck a passing train.

A FOREIGN PRODUCE HOUSE SUSPENDED.

C. Mattmann, Schmidt & Co., an extensive produce commission house, have suspended. Schmidt says he received a telegram from his partner in Europe on Monday stating that paper amounting to 35,000 pounds had gone to protest, and as an act of prudence, more than necessity, he had temporarily suspended. He said he had ample collateral abroad to meet all demands there. There is no embarrassment caused by local causes.

ARREST OF JURORS RUMORED.

It is rumored that two of the jurors in the Stokes trial will be arrested. The charges are that they were tampered with by the friends of Stokes. No names have been ascertained.

RAILWAY COLLISION.

Early this morning two freight trains collided at Basket Switch, near Port Jervis, on the Erie road. Both locomotives were badly smashed, and eleven cars and their contents burned. The accident was caused by a misplaced switch. There was no one injured.

A RAID.

One hundred or more indictments have been found against lottery dealers who will be arrested Monday.

MISSOURI.

A RUFFIAN ARRESTED.

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 30. Mike McCool was arrested late last night on the charge of shooting and killing Patsey Manley. John Mitchell, Tom Best and Thomas Grateley, McCool's bar tenders, were also arrested. Manley was to have fought Martin Roderick in the same ring that Allen and Hogan were to have fought.

MILWAUKEE, Oct. 30. J. B. Watkins, Superintendent of the Iowa Midland, and the Iowa Division of the Chicago & Northwestern Railroad, was killed this forenoon near Cedar Rapids, Iowa, by a freight train colliding with the rear of a passenger train.

FROM BOSTON.

AN APPEAL FOR THE DESTITUTE ORPHANS OF MEMPHIS.

BOSTON, Oct. 30. Hon. Robert C. Winthrop received a despatch from R. S. Bradstreet, Cincinnati, stating that eleven hundred destitute orphans in Memphis appeal for assistance from outside sources, and ask that contributions may be made in their behalf universally, and that the towns in Massachusetts be earnestly requested to raise and forward funds for their relief. Mr. Winthrop will heartily co-operate with the committee already raised at a meeting held in the Board of Trade, Boston, in the distribution of any funds sent for this purpose to C. G. Atwood, Secretary, Boston Board of Trade.

A WAR CLAIM.

THE SUIT AGAINST GEN. BUTLER.

NEW YORK, Oct. 30. The suit of Wm. E. Britton against Benj. F. Butler to recover $15,000, the amount of his two drafts seized by Gen. Butler in 1862 while he was Military Governor of New Orleans, came up for a hearing before Judge Woodruff in the U. S. Circuit Court to-day. Gen. Butler was present and advised the U. S. Attorney, who defends the action on behalf of the Government. The counsel for Mr. Britton stated the facts of the case as follows:

In 1862 a man bearing two drafts drawn by the firm of which Britton was a partner, doing business in Natchez, Mississippi, was arrested while attempting to cross from the rebel lines into New Orleans. The drafts were then valueless, but Gen. Butler compelled Mills, Judson & Co., who were agents in New Orleans for Button & Co., to endorse them and then got them cashed. He claims that Button was not an enemy of the U. S. Government and that his property could not therefore be confiscated by an agent of that Government. The case is still on trial.

GEN. BUTLER'S STATEMENT.

In the afternoon Gen. Butler went on the stand for the defence and testified to one of his pickets arresting a man who had drafts on his person and bringing him before him (Butler) as Acting Governor. The man was attempting to pass over out of the rebel lines, at the time of his arrest. The drafts were drawn by Britton & Co., of Natchez, on the Citizens' National Bank of New Orleans. The man said he was to get the money, $15,000, and bring it back to Britton & Co. to Natchez. At the time commercial communication between New Orleans and Natchez was closed. Butler claims that unless he seized the drafts he would be liable to censure for neglect of duty. He paid $15,000 into the U. S. Treasury and the fact of his receiving it back again did not alter the case. He was justified in supposing the money, if obtained by the man in New Orleans, and the bearer of it got back safe inside the rebel lines, would be used for the benefit of the rebels. The case was heard by Judge Woodruff without a jury and he is to decide on the law points involved.

NEW YORK STATE.

THE SITUATION IN ROCHESTER.

NEW YORK, Oct. 30. A despatch from Rochester says the manufacturing business in that city is more or less affected by the stringency of the money market. There is a general reduction of the force employed, and a reduction in the wages is anticipated. There is always a reduction at this time of the year, but the reduction this fall is more than usual. The boot and shoe firms are running on three quarter time, and the clothing men half time.

THE DEPRESSION TEMPORARY.

A representative firm in the clothing business say they do not apprehend a permanent depression in the business, but shall open shops for spring trade later than usual with a smaller force and reduction of ten per cent in the wages which the employes are ready to accept. Three fourths of the iron workers have been discharged, and the remainder are working on half time. This is a fair sample of the rest.

SYRACUSE AND AUBURN.

All the manufacturing industries in Syracuse except the salt owners are suffering very seriously. Nearly every manufactory is run on half time. Auburn appears less affected by the money panic than any other place in New York.

MASSACHUSETTS.

REDUCTION OF TIME IN FALL RIVER MILLS—SOME MILLS CONTINUING ON FULL TIME.

FALL RIVER, Oct. 30. A meeting of representatives from the different cotton manufacturing corporations in this city was held at the Board of Trade rooms last evening for the purposes of considering the question of reducing the working time in the mills. The mills were all represented. After hearing reports from different establishments and discussion on the subject it was voted on and after Tuesday, Nov. 4, that the mills run on half time four days each week, and 8 hours a day the rest of the week. All the mills, 39 in number, come into this arrangement, except the Mechanic and Border City, which have contracts for the month of November, and the Robeson and Fall River Print Works Mills. These mills employ about 14,000 operatives, and when in full operation, their monthly pay rolls amount to about $450,000.

FALL RIVER NOT INVOLVED WITH THE SPRAGUES.

The impression prevails outside our city and to some extent among our own citizens, that the suspension of A & W. Sprague would be seriously felt at this place. They do not owe a cent to any mill here and none of the national banks or private banking houses have any of their paper.

WASHINGTON.

BRITISH EXCISE LAWS.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30. The Commissioner of Internal Revenue has received from Gen. Schenck, Minister to England, copies of all forms, reports, &c. used by the English Government in relation to the collection of taxes on distilled spirits, malt liquors and tobacco. These papers will be examined carefully with the view to adopting any improvements over our system.

ILLINOIS

AFTER THE PRIZE-FIGHTERS.

Governor Beveridge, of Ill., is determined to stop it if possible and has notified the sheriffs of five river counties to be on the alert and arrest all interested.

THE FIGHT PREVENTED—A LIVE GOVERNOR

It is said that Allen and Hogan will fight in three weeks in Canada, near Detroit, for $2,500 a side. Gov. Beveridge, in his determination to prevent the fight, went so far as to order one hundred muskets and ammunition to East St. Louis yesterday, to be used in defence of the Illinois law, if necessary.

NEW YORK, Oct. 30. A despatch from Pittsburg, Pa., says that the blast furnaces of Moorehead & Co. on the Monongahela river have suspended, and it is said that the suspension foreshadows the closing up of the remainder of such furnaces in that city, and in the Mahoning and Shenango valleys. These furnaces employ about 10,000 men.

A SLIPPERY WITNESS.

Lt Nogues swore that he fruitlessly attempted to deliver to Bazaine a despatch entrusted to him on the 23d of August by the Empress. He admitted after much prevarication that he was also the bearer of a despatch to Gen. Bourbaki. The President of the court severely censured this witness for attempting to conceal facts.

The barn was near the house, but was saved from destruction by great exertion. Loss about $1,000; insured for $600. It is supposed that the fire took around the chimney.

About 4 o'clock yesterday morning the store of Hugh Reed & Co., at Glenwood, was burned, with the entire stock of goods which it contained. There had been no fire or light about the premises up to 5 o'clock the previous evening when Mr. Reed left the store, and it is strongly suspected that the conflagration was started by an incendiary. The loss will amount to some $2,500, on which there is a small insurance.

RAILWAY EXTENSION. We hear it stated on good authority that the Consolidated European & North American Railway Company have made a proposition to the town of Monson, that if the town will furnish aid to the extent of five per cent. of its valuation, the Company will this fall locate a continuation of the Piscataquis branch from Guilford to Monson, thirteen miles, and build it as soon thereafter as possible. If this is done before April next, the extension will be aided to the extent of $15,000 per mile in bonds of this city, to be issued in accordance with the vote to aid the extension of the Bangor & Piscataquis Railroad to Moosehead Lake. There are five slate quarries in Monson, four of which are in active operation, and all will be tapped by the proposed extension of the railroad.

COMPOSITE LODGE, F. & A. M., was publicly constituted at Lagrange yesterday afternoon by M. W., David Cargill, Grand Master, assisted by Past Grand Master John H. Lynde, R. W. Daniel Dolliff, D. D. G. M. W. Chas. I. Collamore, Grand Marshal, J. W. Toward, G. S. B., and several brethren from neighboring Lodges. The services were performed in an adjoining church and were made more interesting by an able choir. The following officers were installed:—H. W. Blake, Master; Cyrus C. Durgin, S. W.; John W. Blake, J. W.; Chas. H. Prouty, Treas.; Hazen W. Danforth, Sec'y; Marcellus Nason, S. D.; Andrew H. Dyer, J. D.; Daniel Haudom, S. S.; John McCowen, S. S.; R. L. Doble, Tyler. The brethren have a comfortable Hall and have started under very favorable auspices.

"THE BRIGHT AND DARK SIDES OF LIFE."—Rev. Geo. T. Day, D. D., delivered a lecture on the above subject in the Essex street church last evening, a good audience being in attendance. The lecturer's elocution was almost faultless and his subject handled in a way that engaged the whole attention of the hearers during the hour and a half that he spoke. He began by placing before his audience the effect of one of Rembrant's paintings in the Louvre, Paris, upon two persons. The first looked at it, with its delicate shade, and saw only gloom, while the second made it the study of hours, seeing new beauties as he viewed it in different lights and positions. From this the speaker turned his audience to view the activities, sorrows, calamities and blessings of real life. Some habitually look upon the dark side of the scene, while others see only the brightness it contains. The various conditions as the earlier training and surrounding circumstances, the physical and mental conditions of man divide the race into two classes, the philanthropist and the cynic, and these conditions also constitute "the bright and dark side of life," which the speaker showed to be useful to man in promoting his mental and spiritual development. The cheerful, hopeful man goes through life drawing from every disappointment, and calamity some blessing which changes his otherwise despondency to success and joy. Thus through life the bright and dark sides are useful in developing man, while to those who accept their troubles and calamities unmurmuringly and strive to avert them in the future, the brightness of the picture is clearest and their success assured. There are those also too hopeful who live in their own bright fancies and never are sensible of a shock, as the cynic is not of a blessing. The lecture closed by a reference to history for examples of true hopefulness and the effect of calamity on those who take the lesson as it is designed for their benefit.

ON WITNESSES. Mr. Editor: One of the witnesses in a case on trial in the Supreme Court a day or two since, being asked as to his relationship to one of the parties, undertook to be very legal and not to make any statement beyond his actual knowledge. What he knew upon that subject was in the nature of hearsay. The Judge, who has no great love for wordy and irresponsive answers, mildly reprimanded the witness, and recommended to the young man, if he had occasion to answer that question again, to answer it directly. This reminded me of a scene in the Belfast court, where Mr. Jewett practices. He is very impatient at any behavior of his own witnesses that puts them in a bad light before the jury. A middle-aged man, Mr. Jewett's witness, was asked as a preliminary question if the plaintiff was his father. The witness replied in a drawling, swinging manner, "Wall, they say he is." Upon which the old lion roared, "Stop that, sir! Do not act like a fool. Do you not know any better than when you are called as a witness to begin by casting doubts upon your own paternity?" In another case here a witness was asked to state a conversation, when he began, "It was in this way; it was one morning quite early, and had the appearance—" The Judge hinted that when a witness began in that way he always expected that he was going to lie. One of the veterans of the bar in commenting remarked that he had always observed that an earnest, honest, and truthful witness always stuck to the point and answered directly the questions put; generally remembered well what was material and was not disposed to wander from it in his answers; while an untrustworthy witness was constantly dodging the material point and filling up the time by telling a great many truths not inquired for, and entirely immaterial. Their conscience troubles them and they get away from the troublesome point as quietly as they can. Another says on manufacturing testimony that parties seem to think that all that is necessary to win a case is to place before the jury [illegible] [illegible] which if true would entitle them to a verdict. There is no rule of law that requires the jury to accept any man's testimony unless convinced of its truth.

SUPREME JUDICIAL COURT

(OCTOBER CIVIL TERM.)

HON. CHAS. W. WALTON, Judge, Presiding. EZRA C. BRETT, Esq., Clerk of Courts. J. D. PULSIFER, Esq., Stenographer.

Thursday, Oct. 30th. Nathaniel Muzzey vs. Ivory J. Hatch et al; Assumpsit for money had and received for plff's logs sold by deft. declaring for a balance of $74.13.

Defense—True, we collected very nearly the sum you say and that certain credits which you allow us would reduce that sum to about your claim; but our account in set off calls for more deduction, viz: $1.42, which you charge us on a few logs more money than we received; also, our commissions on sales, $20.34; also, trespasses on your part which will balance the rest of your claim.

Reply—You have been allowed in this calculation for all expenses in the care and sale of the logs; never promised to pay you commissions. It is not usual for men who furnish supplies and sell lumber to make their pay out of to charge commission on sales.

Court—The little item of $1.42 must be allowed the deft., because in an action for money had and received, plaintiff can only recover the amount actually received. The trespass claim cannot be allowed in set-off. The jury may or may not allow commissions as the evidence warrants.

The jury disallowed the commissions and returned a verdict for the plaintiff for $79.61.

THE HOULTON TRAGEDY.

EXAMINATION OF MICHAEL KEILEY.

The examination of Michael Keiley, charged with the murder of Willie Martin, began Tuesday afternoon at the Court House in Houlton before Trial Justice John C. Ingraham, of Hodgdon, John Burnham and C. M. Herrin appearing for the Government, and L. Powers for the prisoner.

A brief opening of the case for the Government was made by Mr. Herrin, and the examination of witnesses was at once begun. We append a synopsis of the testimony as published in the Aroostook Times:

R. S. Clough testified to seeing the body early in the morning; described position of it, and traces of blood on ground; saw no earth stains on clothes.

Dr. Geo. Cary, who assisted in the post mortem examination, testified that death was caused by a pistol bullet fracturing skull and rupturing artery; thought bullet entered in front; said there was not the "least shadow of a possibility" of Martin's placing himself in the position in which the body was found, after receiving such a wound; thought he might have died in one hour after receiving wound; testified to seeing blood on Willie Martin's vest and coat, and on frock found in Keiley's shop; thought blood on all these garments was recent; and was of opinion that blood on frock was not one week old at time he saw it, (Saturday, the day on which the body was found); said Keiley was pale and agitated when frock was produced at the inquest before Coroner's Jury.

Dr. Bussey's testimony agreed with Dr. Cary's, except that he thought the bullet entered behind. Testimony in relation to impossibility of Martin's placing himself in position in which he was found, agreed with Dr. Cary's. He thought blood on frock was as recent as blood on Martin's vest and coat; could not say whether blood on frock was human or animal.

Dr. G. A. Lewis' testimony agreed with Drs. Cary and Bussey in relation to impossibility of Martin's putting himself in position found; testified that his wife made the frock found in Keiley's shop for a man named Millitt who worked for Keiley; said he extracted a splinter of iron from Millitt's finger and dressed wound, which he thought Millitt got working in shop; this was several weeks before murder. He could not say whether it was before or after he had frock made; thought blood on frock was older than blood on Martin's clothes, looked different to him.

Fannie Holmes, Geo. Small and Wm. Morrison, Jr., testified that they had heard Keiley threaten to "put an end" to his daughter Mary and Martin, too, if she did not stop going with him. Fannie Holmes thought he was in liquor at time of making threat; saw Martin in Keiley's shop a few days before murder, apparently they were then good friends, talking and laughing together.

Lyman Cottle testified that on Thursday of the week before the murder he and Keiley were standing together in front of Monson's when Martin went by, and Keiley took a step towards the latter and said he would horse-whip him. Keiley had been drinking some. Witness lent Keiley a pistol about a week before the murder; he wanted it as he said because he was going to stop alone in the Benson house; he returned it next morning.

David Manson last saw Martin alive on Putnam's corner, about 7 1/2 o'clock, Friday evening; said to him, "a girl down town sends her love to you." He said, "I guess not." Saw Keiley in the Hall, spoke to him. He was not excited; did not see him come in. He appeared as usual. Witness went home with Mary Kelley that night.

Mrs. Patrick O'Donnell testified that Keiley's daughter boarded at her house. Willie Martin was paying attention to Mary Keiley; heard Keiley tell daughter not to go with Martin; heard him say, "he pitied the man if he set eyes on him," did not say what he meant.

Mary O'Donnell had heard Keiley scold his daughter, and swear at her for going with Martin; daughter cried. Have seen Martin in Keiley's shop, apparently friendly with Keiley; heard pistol shot that night between 7 and 8 o'clock, which she understood Mary Kelley fired; heard but one shot.

Patrick O'Donnell swore that he had heard Keiley scold daughter for going with Martin; he said "Martin had better keep out of his way." Saw Martin in Keiley's shop Friday afternoon of the murder, apparently friendly.

John Kelley testified that he met Martin on sidewalk, between O'Donnell's and Sleeper's, about 7 1/2 o'clock on the night of the murder.

Eddie K. Vandine swore that he was going home, across the bridge, at not later than 7 1/2 o'clock on the evening of the murder; met Kelley coming over to town; certain it was not later than 7 1/2 o'clock; positive it was Keiley he met.

Joseph Pelley lives a little above O'Donnell's, and over Keiley's blacksmith shop; heard a shot in evening from direction of O'Donnell's; think it was between 8 and 9 o'clock; have no clock; no means of knowing exactly what time it was; heard but one shot that evening.

The investigation is still in progress.

The N. Y. Times says of the effect of the present financial depression upon the working classes:—

It will be seen by the careful and full reports that we are publishing from the various centres of trade and industry, that the effect of the financial embarrassment upon the employment of labor, is quite serious, at the same time it is by no means universal. The iron, cotton, and wool interests show most signs of distress. But in the first two of these it will be remembered that the check in production is not entirely due, perhaps not mostly due, to difficulty in meeting wages payments, but to uncertainty as to the price of raw material, which has gone down steadily for some time. A turn in prices, such as was indicated on the Stock Exchange, yesterday, if it extended to these articles, might put a very different face on affairs. There is, moreover, general agreement of testimony as to the ability of operatives to sustain a temporary suspension. It is one of the curiosities of the situation that while laborers are being discharged by the thousand throughout the country, the puddlers in the great iron mills on the Troy flats, who have received an average of $6 per day, are on a strike to secure fifteen cents more refused by the employers.

The Boston Traveller says: "There is already much suffering among the working women and girls of New York, consequent upon the contraction of business because of the financial embarrassments, and it is feared that the number of those out of work will be largely increased after the holidays. In this city, work for women is about as plenty as usual, though the demand for domestics is not so great as it has sometimes been. If there is no increase in the number of the unemployed by arrivals from other places, there is not likely to be more than the usual number of this class needing help the coming winter."

The Jackson Pilot declares that an election will be held in Mississippi next Tuesday, notwithstanding the vote of the Democratic House of Representatives to repeal the law providing for it. It says that the action of the State Senate has shown that it is in favor of an election, and the support of the Constitution, and that without its concurrence the attempt to set the law aside will be fruitless.

Dorman B. Eaton, President of the civil service reform board, has been for several days consulting as to the work which the board shall attempt during the winter. He has decided to spend much of his time there during the coming session consulting with the chief civil officers and with Congressmen, with a view to make the reform as thorough and practicable as possible. He also purposes to attend the local examinations at the East and West, for the purpose of making himself acquainted with the views of those who support and the objections of those who oppose the present methods of securing reform.

Wednesday next has been fixed for the trial of Tweed.

LYNDE HOTEL.—The proprietor of Lynde Hotel at Rockland, has been at great expense to furnish travelers a neat and comfortable home, and we are pleased to learn that his enterprise is meeting with the reward so justly merited.

THE superiority of the stock used in making the Elmwood and Warwick Collars, and the edge folded all around, are the reason why they are liked better than any others.
